EDUCATION

University of California at Santa Barbara (Ph.D. Anthropology, 1999)

University of California at Santa Barbara (M.A. Anthropology, 1994)

The Colorado College (B.A. Anthropology, magna cum laude, 1989)

PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

- 2006– Vice President for Academic & Institutional Advancement, School for Advanced Research.
- 2005–06 Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology & Geography, Georgia State University.
- 1999–05 Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology & Geography, Georgia State University.
- 1995, '99 Visiting Professor, Department of Anthropology, The Colorado College.
- 1995 Lecturer, Department of Anthropology, UC Santa Barbara.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

- 2006– Vice President for Academic & Institutional Advancement, School for Advanced Research, Santa Fe, NM.

Works with SAR president to provide leadership, coordination, and enrichment of SAR's academic divisions and development operations. Directly supervises Division Heads of Scholar Programs, SAR Press, and the Indian Arts Research Center, as well as development and marketing staff, for a management portfolio of ~20 staff members. Oversees implementation of SAR strategic plans relating to academic programming, development activities, and institutional advancement, as well as program evaluation. Oversees planning and implementation of fundraising activities, with a focus on foundations and federal agencies, and assists president in major gift cultivation from individual donors. Oversees public outreach and program promotion, including membership program. Has contributed to securing over $4.5 million of grants for SAR programs and operations, nearly doubling program output without budget increases, and establishing collaborative arrangements with several local, national, and international institutions and organizations.

- 2005–06 Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology and Geography, Georgia State University, Atlanta.

Secured internal and external funding for facilities and equipment to re-establish an archaeology program that had all but ended. Established collaborative engagements with local cultural resource management firms to provide internships and employment to archaeology students. Served as Undergraduate Advisor, and established field school in New Mexico. Contributed to the establishment of two new tenure-track archaeology lines in the department.
